LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION
For Tamás Krisztián Kálmán

Dear Sir or Madam,

On behalf of BLCKS, I hereby recommend Tamás Krisztián Kálmán to the attention of his prospective employer.

BLCKS is an award-winning* software development company that delivers innovative digital products and custom technology solutions for domestic and international clients. We have been working with Tamás since October 2024. He joined our company as a junior software developer, and over the nearly two years since then he has taken part in numerous projects with diverse technological and business requirements.

In the course of his work, he contributed, among others, to the development of the AI-based voice and speech technology solutions built for SYNLAB, RMC and Xmed360. He also took part in the implementation of the award-winning Propertizer proptech platform, as well as in the development of Flinkit, an AI-based outdoor team-building solution that reached second place in Product Hunt's daily product ranking. In addition, he worked on the Wingman travel application, which has achieved more than 100,000 downloads.

Tamás's professional development throughout his time with us has been consistently rapid and steady. He masters new technologies and development methods within a short time, and effectively incorporates the professional feedback he receives into his work. He has gradually become capable of solving increasingly complex tasks, while his independence, sense of responsibility and problem-solving skills have also improved significantly.

Beyond his professional abilities, I consider his collaborative attitude particularly valuable. He is reliable and an exceptionally good team player who communicates constructively, supports his colleagues and, beyond his own tasks, keeps the success of the project and of the entire team in mind. His perseverance and his attitude towards work are exemplary: he works consistently on solving complex or previously unfamiliar problems, and remains committed to achieving the right professional outcome despite the difficulties that arise.

Based on the experience he has gained so far, his fast learning ability and his independence, I consider Tamás equally well suited to mid-level (medior) software developer and forward deployed engineer positions. He could be particularly effective in AI-related development environments in which, alongside high-quality technical implementation, a quick understanding of business and client needs, adaptability to changing requirements and the fast delivery of working solutions are also decisive.

I recommend Tamás Krisztián Kálmán without reservation as a reliable, committed and rapidly developing professional. I am convinced that, with his professional expertise, his attitude and his cooperative approach, he will create significant value for his future employer as well.
